Professor, Namangan State University Uzbekistan, Namangan

ANNOTATION: This article covers public and educational cooperation, changes in students' morale, consciousness and thinking, factors affecting their change, as well as the role of public organizations in increasing the social activity of young people today.

KEYWORD: public, public organizations, youth, social activity, extremist mood.

Over the past 30 years since the acquisition of historical processes and state independence of the Republic of Uzbekistan, tremendous changes have occurred in the minds of young people.

The transition period was characterized by the determination of a specific and appropriate path of development of the Republic of Uzbekistan, the development of socio-political and economic processes in the country, the steps taken in the world community as an independent state, the development of information technology and the processes associated with globalisation, the emergence of a completely new generation and its formation

As a result of the rapid integration of different cultures, the development of civil society, the rapid movement of information exchange in the process of globalisation, the upbringing of a person who is modern-thinking, able to make quick decisions, is competitive and has a strong intellectual potential has become one of the important issues.

It is worth noting that at present, changes in the social situation of different groups of the population do not bypass even those young people who are considered "always the disseminator of progressive ideas". Youth is a separate socio-demographic group that is experiencing growth and maturation, the state of which is determined by the socio-political situation of society. For the effective implementation of the state policy on youth (social, cultural, spiritual and physical development of youth), great work has been started in the following areas – in the legal sphere, in the sphere of employment and employment, in the sphere of family consolidation and household services, in the sphere of youth development and support, etc.

In particular, the organization and development of the activities of many civil society institutions, such as public organizations, non-profit organizations, self-government bodies of citizens, have influenced the views, consciousness and thinking of young people.

President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Shavkat Mirziyoyev in his speech at the joint meeting of the chambers of the Oliy Majlis dedicated to the opening ceremony of the post of President of the Republic of Uzbekistan noted that "in the implementation of the important principle" from a strong state to a strong civil society”, we first rely on the strength and capabilities of these

“The fact that our young people are rightfully able to take responsibility for the future of our homeland, becoming the decisive force of today and tomorrow, gives pride and pride to all of us. In the same way, civil society institutions should be active in increasing their social activity.”

In the same way, the role of the head of state in the formation of consciousness and thinking of young people in this opinion has shown that the level of public policy has increased.

In this regard, we will witness a responsible task for public organizations in the education of young people in the following thoughts of the president of the Republic of Uzbekistan Shavkat Mirziyoyev in his speech at the meeting with the activists of the Andijan region took place. In particular speech: considering how in the whole world today there is a sharp struggle for the capture of the minds and hearts of the population, first of all young people, threats such as religious extremism, terrorism, drug addiction, “mass culture”, it is necessary to raise our children to a new level, on the contrary, without slowing down our work in the field of education, spiritual and educational.

In this regard, among other regions of the Andijan region, we all need to work together in order to work with young people, especially with a layer of unorganized young people, to listen to their concerns, listen to their problems and provide practical assistance in their solution, to support young men and women entering into independent life, young families, public organizations and

It can be seen that in increasing the social activity of young people, public organizations and representatives of the public should serve as an important base.

It remains to be said that as a result of a sharp increase in development on all fronts, the interests, demands and aspirations of young people are also increasing. As a result of the fact that young people are at the center of political processes, the processes of their politicization are also increasing rapidly.

And in science, this process is evaluated as one of the pressing problems of Modern Philosophy, Sociology and psychology - the question of the politicization of young people.

As already mentioned above, the alignment, integration of the activities of the civil society istitutlar with the activities of educational institutions played an important role in the formation of youth.

As an example, by creating “Istedod” and “Umid” funds, studying in foreign countries of young people studying in higher educational institutions, creating an opportunity to improve their skills, they created processes of comparison, comparison, analysis of education, management, society, economy and other spheres of our country and foreign countries.

These processes, in addition to positive results, also manifested their negative aspects.

In particular, there have been cases when young students were able to get acquainted with the experiences of foreign countries, acquire modern knowledge, fall under the influence of Western culture in the processes of studying abroad, increase in the factors that lead to the increase in foreign migration.

Today, in the development of society, on the one hand, there is a growing trend of the essence of culture, on the other hand, there is also the commercialization of cultural processes, the penetration of mass culture, the influence of electronic media. They, in turn, influence the goals, spiritual and cultural ideals and interests of young people.

It should be taken into account that at present, the main part of the problems associated with the youth of Uzbekistan are the processes of objects taking place in society (i.e. urbanization, the growth of the number of pensioners and elderly in society, the reduction of births, etc.) related.

At present, the identification and finding of their place in society by young people is carried out during the period of the dissolution of old views, values and the formation of new social relations. Therefore, among young people, there are cases of aggression, locality, extremist moods, confusion. Especially among the students of higher educational institutions, these processes are becoming more difficult than representatives of other youth strata.

Firstly, if the student wants young people to be free of themselves as an individual, and secondly, the need for them to be respected as an individual is increasing.

Young people are subjects of social relations. Thanks to this, they also became a participant in the object of social relations.

President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Sh.Mirziyoyev: "today's rapidly changing world opens new and great opportunities before humanity, young people. At the same time, they are also exposed to various evil dangers that have not been seen before. Mercenary forces are turning simple, salty children against their parents, against their own land, giving them life and life.

In these harsh and dangerous conditions, we must further increase vigilance and awareness on this issue by parents, teacher-mentors, the public, neighborhood-go," - he said, referring to the fact that exactly the above situations are coming to a surface and the public should struggle seriously in this regard.

This process does not directly bypass the life of students either. The reason is that the students of the higher educational institution become the decisive personnel of the country's tomorrow. For this reason, it is necessary to create comprehensive conditions for students, to create a wide area of opportunities for them by the public.

In this regard, the first president of the Republic of Uzbekistan Islam Karimov said, "all issues should be resolved fairly at the place of residence of students. Because young people are impulsive, the violation of justice was not noted to be accidental, saying" more than anyone else will receive exactly close to the heart of young people.

Who provides justice, of course, the public, public opinion, the implementation of public control is also closely related to these aspects.

As one of the primitive manifestations of the church, the family should also be recognized separately. The environment in the family and social relations also play an important role in the formation of the youth worldview.

We can see the direct impact of the family on the formation of many positive and negative vices. For example, one of the negative aspects of our mentality is that the quality of the presence of certain views formed in the family is observed even today. "Do not interfere with politics!" If the views of the tribe "walk away from politics" strongly influenced the views of young people 10-15 years ago, today the interest of young people in political processes in the process of globalisation of politics is growing. As a result, between representatives of the older generation and representatives of the younger generation, there is a tendency or conflict of views.

Therefore, today in higher educational institutions of the Union of youth of Uzbekistan, trade unions federations, women's organizations are organized, a number of projects related to education are being implemented. Also, attention is paid to the implementation of large-scale activities among students of higher educational institutions by the Republican center of spirituality and enlightenment, the Association of young scientists, the non-governmental organization "Intellect" and many other public organizations.

Today, the ministries of public education, higher and secondary special education should perfectly develop the content of education in secondary schools, higher and secondary special educational institutions in order to fully engage young people in the educational process and educate them as a harmonious generation.

In this place:

- Development of forms, methods and means of educational work in accordance with the requirements of the world Constitution;
- Modern equipment of educational, cultural and educational institutions on the basis of new technology and technology;
- To ensure the creativity of teachers and mentors, to find effective ways to improve their professional skills;
- Wide introduction of modern forms of educational institutions for rural youth;
- It is desirable for young people to pay special attention to the organization of wellness resorts, recreation camps.

Taking into account the fact that the process of politicization of students of higher educational institutions is active, their worldview is gaining a modern spirit in contrast to the youth of the previous period, further improvement of the quality of the educational system, organization of the educational process on the basis of modern sidewalks, advanced technologies, in this process it is required not to forget.
